

Check your Apple ID device list to see where you're signed in support.apple.com/en-in/HT205064

Remove a device from the list

If your device is missing, you can use Find My to find your device and take additional actions that can help you recover it and keep your data safe. If you aren't using your device anymore, or if you don't recognize it, you might want to remove it from the list.

If you set up two-factor authentication for your Apple ID, removing a device will ensure that it can no longer display verification codes. It also won't have access to iCloud and other Apple services, including Find My, until you sign in again with two-factor authentication. The device won't reappear in the list unless you sign in again.

Use your iPhone, iPad, or iPod touch to remove a device

1. Tap the device to see its details, then tap Remove from Account.
2. Review the message that appears, then tap again to confirm that you want to remove the device.
3. Want to permanently remove the device from your account page?

Use your Mac to remove a device

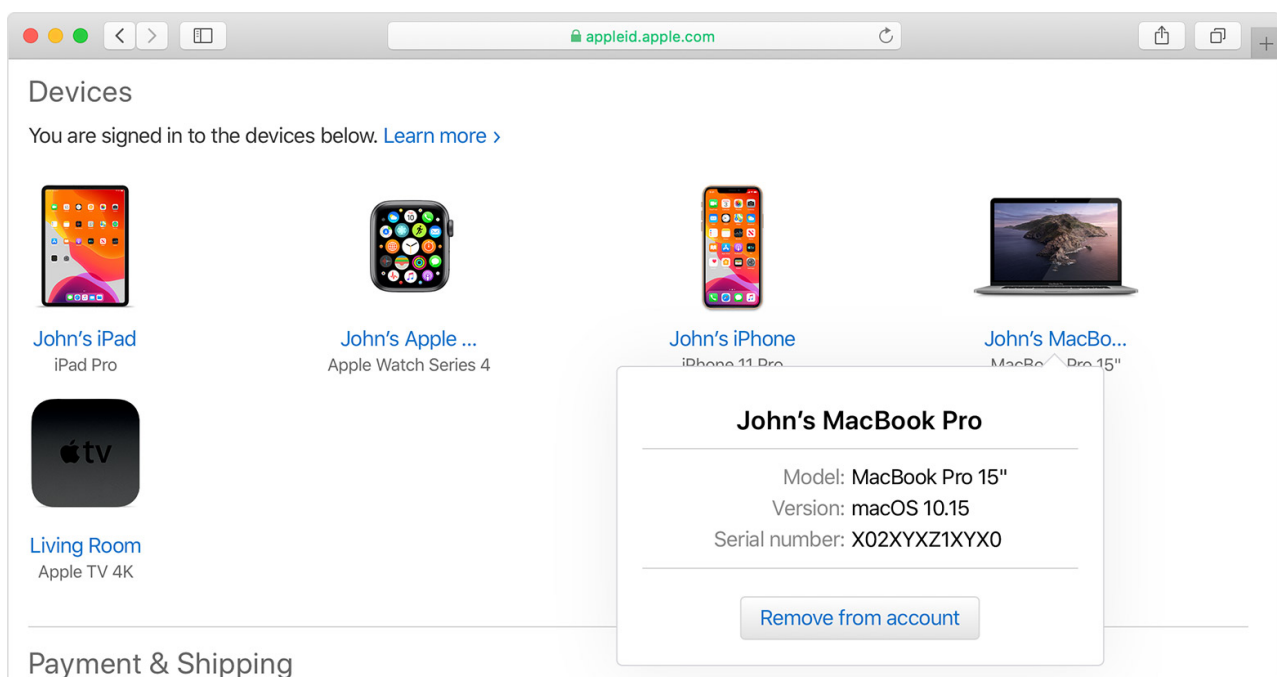

1. Choose Apple menu  > System Preferences.
2. Click Apple ID.

3. Click the device to see its details, then click Remove from Account.
4. Review the message that appears, then click again to confirm that you want to remove the device.
5. Want to permanently remove the device from your account page?

Use your PC to remove a device

1. Open iCloud for Windows.
2. Click Account Details, then click Manage Apple ID.
3. Click the device to see its details, then click Remove from Account.
4. Review the message that appears, then click again to confirm that you want to remove the device.
5. Want to permanently remove the device from your account page?

Use the web to remove a device

You can remove devices from your Apple ID account page:

1. Click the device to see its details, then click "Remove from account."
2. Review the message that appears.
3. Click again to confirm that you want to remove the device.
4. Want to permanently remove the device from your account page?

Permanently remove a device from your account page

If you're still signed in with your Apple ID on the device, it might reappear on your account page the next time your device connects to the Internet. To permanently remove the device from your account page, sign out of iCloud, iTunes & App Stores, iMessage, FaceTime, and Game Center on that device, or erase that device.

